

Calling All Floral Designers

To find florists, ask newlywed friends or other wedding professionals: your caterer, photographer, wedding consultant, or banquet manager. Your bridal salon might be an especially good place—since flowers are the finishing touch to the bride's dress, they often work together closely. Also check with your officiant and/or the contact at your ceremony site. Check out www.TheKnot.com/florists for local flower pros, or visit local flower shops to see if you might want to approach them for your wedding.
